Pedigree

Modern King Is Without Pride

I'm looking at the pedigree of a freshly-registered young dog. It's an imposing document. If dogs laid any store by such things they'd be the most uncomfortable of companions — but the all-wise Creator stipulated in the beginning that dogs shouldn't learn to read.

Ever since the Allied victory over Germany in 1945 Belgium's exiled king, Leopold the Third, has been trying to go home. One special election after another was called to determine the king's fate, but either he lost the contest or it was deadlocked. Belgium tried again last Sunday, and the Leopold forces obtained a bare majority, according to the election returns tabulated Monday.

Here is a country almost evenly divided about him — yet the king wants back on his throne. To say Leopold hasn't the pride you would expect of a king is putting it mildly.

The record shows he is a skunk. When the Germans overran Belgium in World War II Leopold, instead of protecting the flank of the French and British troops, abruptly surrendered. He doctored France to certain defeat, and jammed the English hand against the sea at Dunkirk.

Leopold didn't even take the trouble to tell his Allies what he was going to do. His story was that France and Britain couldn't win anyway, they were letting Belgium be cut to pieces merely as a delaying action to gain time at home — so he let the enemy in without notice.

But there is a code among men that when you are entrusted with a vital post in time of great danger you either defend it, or, if that becomes impossible, you notify those who are counting on you that they can rearrange their lines. Leopold did none of this. He quit on the job. He deserted just as flagrantly as though he had actually joined Hitler and fought for him. What he really did was find refuge in Switzerland — while the world and his own countrymen reviled him.

Now he wants to return to the throne, knowing in advance that half his country detests him.

Unhappy Belgium! Only one explanation is possible: The anti-Communist tide is running so strongly in Europe that reactionaries believe Leopold is merely the lesser of two evils.

I wouldn't accept that for the truth — and I don't believe the Belgians will, either.

Pleasant June Day Enjoyed Over Nation

Chicago, June 6 —(AP)—A pleasant June day was in prospect for most of the nation today. There were a few rainy spots but generally the U. S. Weather Bureau said, skies were clear across the country. The showers were in parts of Texas and Louisiana, southern Florida and the Lake Superior region.

The coolest areas were along the Canadian border in Minnesota and North Dakota and southern Minnesota and above 100 in the southwestern desert area. Top mark was 107 at Blythe, Calif.

Eight persons were injured yesterday as a tornado ripped through southeast Texas, striking five small communities. Five were injured at Kenny, about 60 miles northwest of Houston. Three were hurt at Krump. Several homes and buildings were leveled.

Tornadoes Sweep Texas Towns, Dozen Injured

Kenny, Texas, June 6 —(AP)—A dozen or more persons were injured, none seriously, when a tornado swept through three south-west Texas counties late yesterday day. Crops were wiped out in a wide stretch of Washington, Austin and Waller counties. Small buildings were wrecked.

Battering hail and drenching rain accompanied the twister. Mr. and Mrs. Ignace Janichowski and their son, Leon, 28, escaped serious injury when their home at Klump, in Washington county, was picked up, whirled around four times and hurled to the ground by the tornado.

Many persons were bruised by the hail that in some instances measured more than an inch in diameter, but not enough to require hospitalization.

Court Decision Arouses Dixie, Truman Blamed

Atlanta, June 6 —(UP)—The south frothed today with angry and eloquent denunciations of new Supreme court anti-segregation rulings which may have important bearings on current political campaigns in Dixie.

Some defenders of "southern traditions" blamed President Truman for the decisions that Negro students should be admitted to state universities in Texas and Oklahoma and segregation ended in railroad dining cars.

The court's action was certain to give States' Rights advocates a talking point in their effort to unite the south and it could possibly cost the administration a valuable supporter in congress.

In North Carolina, Sen. Frank Graham, who led the first state primary on a pro-administration platform, will have to face Willis Smith, a corporation lawyer from Raleigh, in a runoff if Smith calls for it.

Smith, who repeatedly attacked Graham's liberal views during the campaign, may regard the court's rulings as the ammunition he needs for another effort to unseat the senator. However, he has not yet commented on the decisions of whether they will influence his plans.

Georgia Gov. Herman Talmadge was quick to exploit the court decisions politically.

"I know that my opposition is jubilant about these decisions," Talmadge said.

However, former Gov. M. E. Thompson, the other major candidate in the June 20 primary, promised, as Talmadge did, that "we will not have Negroes attending white schools" if he is elected. Talmadge, whose late father Eugene Talmadge was elected governor of Georgia on a white supremacy ticket, said the court action runs "hand-in-glove with the FEPC, anti-segregation pre-civil rights crowd who seek to destroy everything we hold dear."

Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, now seeking the South Carolina governorship, said the matter "calls for deliberation, more thinking and less talking."

State GOPs Plan to Reorganize

By HARLY PERSHING Little Rock, June 6 —(AP)—A leader of the national Republican party predicted today that within the next ten years Arkansas voters would elect GOP candidates to congress.

Harold Stassen, former Minnesota governor and aspirant for the 1948 GOP presidential election, said that Republicans in Arkansas congressional delegation would mean further progress for this state.

Stassen spoke at the opening business session of the state Republican convention.

Stassen said the Republican party has made great inroads in the Democratic party in the south. "There never was a time in the past 50 years that as many citizens of the south were seriously considering joining the Republican party as the party of their choice," said Stassen.

Little Rock, June 6 —(AP)—The Arkansas Republican state committee wants to appoint party committee officials in counties where it believes the Democrats have taken over Republican machinery. The state committee adopted such a resolution last night, subject to approval by the Republican state convention here today.

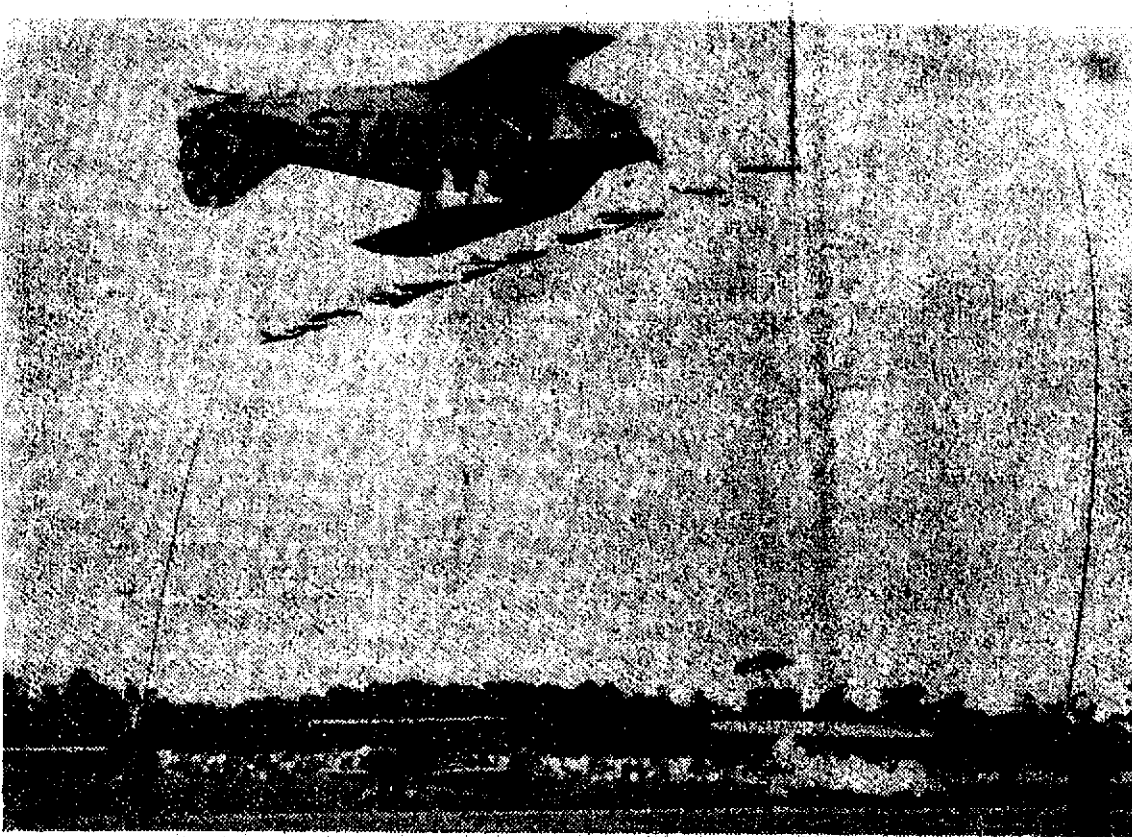

The Republicans today were to hear Harold Stassen, former Minnesota governor and aspirant for the 1948 Republican nomination. Stassen now is president of the University of Pennsylvania.

Power of selection of county committee officials is considered important because under a 1948 initiated act chairmen of the Democratic and Republican county committees each name one member of the three-member county election commission.

The state committee resolution was adopted after Edward Waller of West Memphis said a called meeting of the Crittenden county Republican convention last May 15 was attended by "a gang of people I didn't know and I'm sure weren't Republicans."

Minor Blaze at Flooring Mill Quickly Extinguished

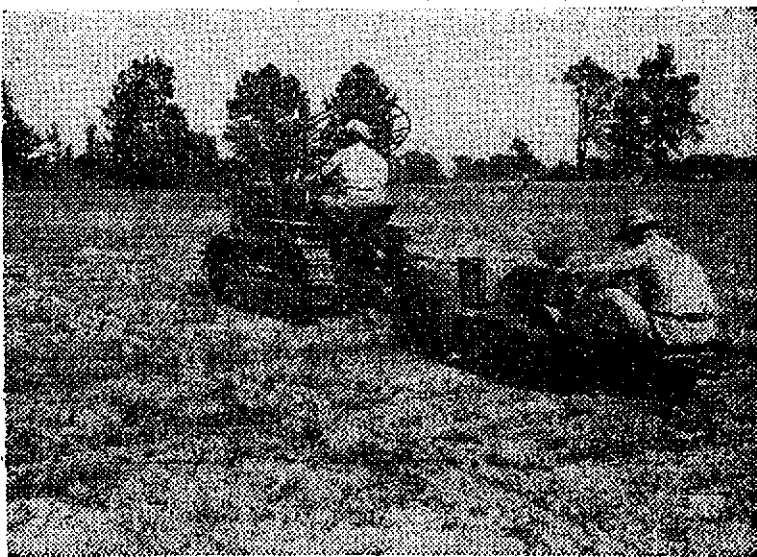

A fuel fire at Hope Flooring Mill about 7:10 last night was quickly brought under control by plant facilities and resulted in practically no damage, operators announced today. However, the Hope Fire Department did make the call as a precautionary measure.

One of the highlights of the Legion Air Show June 11, at Hope Municipal Airport will be Wilbur "Up-side-down" Staib, as he performs his famous inverted ribbon-pick-up. While flying inverted only 12 feet off the ground, he will cut a ribbon which is suspended between two bamboo fishing poles. This dare-devil act was selected as the No. 1 specialty act at Miami Air Races this year.

Along with Staib will come aerial stars as Major Art Davis, 57-year-old stunt man, better known as the "Dean of all air show pilots"; Captain Joe Call, light plane national acrobatic champion who will perform the difficult feat of landing and taking off on the "world's smallest airport", a platform 12 feet long, 7 feet 6 inches wide. T. Hensley Collins from Bourbon, Conn. county, Kentucky will also be on hand to show you "how not to fly an airplane", while Paul Less will perform the right way to fly a plane, and then land with a dead engine. Blythe Huntley, famous parachutist will open the huge parachute with his beautiful, spectacular "Flag Jump."

The show, sponsored by the Hope American Legion will start at 3 p. m.

Tree planting machines, like the one above, planted a million trees in Union County, and more than two million trees in Columbia county this year. The Hope Chamber of Commerce plans to buy one for the use of Hempstead county landowners.

To Hold Tree Planting Demonstration

Following a meeting yesterday afternoon of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the Soil Conservation department, announcement was made that a tree planting demonstration will be held in Hope on the Elmer Brown farm just off of highway 29, south of Hope at 3 p. m. Friday, this week. The demonstration will be put on by Tom Fallon of Magnolia, manufacturer of the tree planting machine. All land owners in Hempstead county having unused acreage are urged to attend.

The Chamber of Commerce is now planning to purchase a tree planter, the use of which will be made available to all persons planning to set out seedlings this fall. Poy Hammons has agreed to contract for the planting at a charge of $5 per acre. As seedlings cost $2.50 per acre, the total cost of seedlings in the ground would be $7.50 per acre. In order that plans may be completed on this planting program, it is necessary that persons arrange immediately for the purchase of their seedlings, as all such orders must be in by the 20th of this month. Order blanks may be obtained either at the Chamber of Commerce or the Soil Conservation office. The actual planting will be undertaken during the months of December, January and February, but orders for seedlings must be placed by individuals themselves, direct to the order nursery.

West Point, N. Y., June 6 —(AP)—Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., said today the Western Allies must rely on "highly scientific ground troops" to meet the numerical superiority of "potential enemies."

In a prepared speech for graduation exercises of the U. S. Military academy, Pace said: "Our army, as I hardly need remind you, not only is outnumbered tremendously by the ground forces of our most dangerous antagonist, but is also at a disadvantage qualitatively in certain categories of equipment, most notably in tanks."

The army secretary added: "We and our allies can never hope to compete with our potential enemies in numbers and masses of ground troops and weapons of a conventional type."

Blevins Legion Post to Hold Open House

The Moore-Harris American Legion post of Blevins together with the auxiliary will hold open house at the hut at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, June 8.

A special program has been planned and refreshments will be served following a short business meeting in the school auditorium. All members were urged to attend by Coy E. Zumwalt, adjutant.

Cause of Stock Market Plunge Undetermined

New York, June 6 —(AP)—The stock market headed downward at high speed today.

Key issues plunged $1 to an extreme of $8 or so a share before the market found a bottom.

Business was so heavy that the high-speed ticker tape was unable to keep up in reporting actual deals on the floor. The delay amounted to four minutes at one time.

Today's crack-up followed one of the worst declines of the year yesterday.

Wall street sources said there was nothing in the news to account for the slump. The market has been advancing for just about a year, however, and a temporary downward adjustment has been widely predicted. Many of the experts believe that the market's long-term trend is upward.

General Motors was a major exception to the downward move following announcement of a plan to split the stock on the basis of two shares for one. Some sales were made at $91.25, up $2.75 a share and the highest price paid since 1929. As the market weakened the gain was sliced in half.

Among leading stocks under pressure were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, merson Radio, Zenith Radio, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, General Electric, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), and Johns-Manville.

Garages and Agencies to Close Also

A majority of garages and automobile agencies will start closing each Wednesday afternoon through August 31, it was announced here today.

Establishments to close include J. B. Cook Co., Hope Auto Co., Luck Motor Co., Gib Lewis Garage, Roger Clinton Buick Co., Coleman Garage, Leo's Garage, Young Chevrolet Garage, Hemstead Motor, Byers Garage, Ward's Shop and Nunn-McDowell.

Officer Is Exonerated in Shooting

A coroner's jury ruled "justifiable homicide" yesterday in connection with the fatal shooting Saturday, June 3, of Hardin Haskins, 20-year-old Negro, who attacked Fulton Marshall R. A. Yarbrough who was taking him to jail on a charge of theft.

Coroner R. V. Herndon, Jr. conducted the inquest which completely exonerated the Fulton officer.

Brown said the shots were fired from a point across the highway, about 75 yards from the garage. High grass, heavy brush and trees offered concealment. Brown found three types of cartridges and shotgun shells in the grass.

Earl ducked, shoved Wylie out of the vehicle and followed. They fled into the garage. A second fusillade ripped into the building. Sheriff Elmer Brown said Wylie "lost his head" and tried to make a run for it, probably to hide behind the building. He was cut down in his tracks.

Earl, who escaped injury, gave the sheriff only meager details of the attack. As in past shootings, he refused to speculate on who the gunmen might be or what their motive was.

Ship Rescues 37 Survivors of Plane Crash

Miami, Fla., June 6 —(AP)—The Destroyer USS Saufley radioed at 9:20 a. m. (ST) today that it had picked up 37 survivors of a twin-engine airplane which crashed into the Atlantic ocean 275 miles north-east of here.

Those saved included the pilot. There was no report on the remainder of the 65 passengers and crewmen who were on the plane.

The destroyer informed coast guard headquarters in Miami that all the survivors picked up were "in good condition."

The destroyer's message: "Recovered 37 survivors. Position 27 degrees 51 minutes north, 75 degrees 32 minutes west. All in rafts pilot believes remainder have life jackets. Continuing coordinate search with planes and picking up all empty rafts."

The pilot's belief that all the missing passengers had life jackets raised hopes that the loss of life would be small.

Earlier a coast guard aircraft, circling over the rescue scene, reported 33 survivors were found. But another plane of the West Air company which participated in the search reported seeing 30 in life rafts.

All the passengers were migratory workers from Puerto Rico enroute to the United States.

The plane was en route from San Juan, Puerto Rico to Wilmington, N. C., when a motor failed. It made a futile attempt to reach Nassau.

The Destroyer USS Saufley started picking up the survivors from five life rafts at 7:30 a. m. (EST) as coast guard and commercial planes hovered overhead. Coast guard cutters, freighters and other vessels were in the area.

There was no immediate indication as to the fate of the missing passengers.

The rescue came almost exactly a year after a transport plane went into the Atlantic on takeoff from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami, killing 53 persons. The date was June 7, 1949.

Survivors were plucked from the sea today less than 10 hours after the stricken aircraft's pilot messaged "It looks like I'm going into the drink."

The time was then 10:06 p. m. (EST). Veteran Pilot Joseph Halsey of Seattle, Wash., radioed one engine was out and he was flying at 200 feet and losing altitude rapidly.

Implies State Dept. Being 'Whitewashed'

Washington, June 6 —(AP) Senator Ives (R-NY) said today there is "accumulating evidence" the administration is trying to whitewash the state department" on Communist charges.

Ives' attack on a current senatorial investigation came amid reports that President Truman is ready to set up a special panel to take over part of the work of a senate foreign relations subcommittee which has been looking into charges made by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Chairman Tydings (DMD) of the subcommittee inquiring into McCarthy's charge ism um after reported discussion of the matter with the President yesterday. The special panel would take over the job of examining loyal files on persons accused by McCarthy. It was not clear whether it would have access to FBI files denied the senatorial committee.

McCarthy scheduled a senate speech today which he said would include information from state department files that would shock both Democratic and Republican senators and "convince them of the danger and urgency of the situation."

McCarthy has frequently denounced the way the Tydings committee has handled the investigation of his charges that the state department is infiltrated with Communists and Red sympathizers.

Ives told a reporter Republicans ought to take the lead in giving the investigation of McCarthy's charges a "fresh start." He said he will join with Senator Tydings (R-Minn) in asking the conference of all Republican senators to take a stand on the issue.

"There is accumulating evidence that the administration is trying to whitewash the state department," Ives said. "It is high time the Republicans took positive action to procure the real investigation needed to bring out the true facts."

Ives has criticized McCarthy's method of making his charges but said he believes the possibility that there are Communists holding down important government jobs ought to be investigated thoroughly.

Gen. MacArthur Orders Purge of Jap Red Leaders

Tokyo, June 6 —(AP)—General MacArthur, angered by Japanese Red attacks on American soldiers, ordered 24 top communist leaders purged today and the Japanese government swiftly followed his command.

The government promptly notified the 24 members of the Communist party central committee, they have been barred from politics.

Seven of them will vacate parliamentary seats. All will be prohibited from party membership or any other political activity. They will be barred from positions of influence in other activities.

The swift move which MacArthur ordered in a letter to Premier Shigeru Yoshida will cut the Reds their principal speakers and most effective leaders. Technically they also will be prohibited from guiding party affairs or writing.

Notification of the purge by the government was made by means of telegrams and special delivery letters to the Reds. They were dispatched after the cabinet discussed MacArthur's letter at a special meeting.

National police, who took steps guard against possible retaliation, arrested two union leaders for their alleged party in the official day demonstration which American soldiers were backed.

The arrests led to speculation that MacArthur's letter was a prelude to a purge of the Reds against the communists.

The government, in the wake of Sunday's elections which saw Yoshida's pro-occupation Liberal party retained in power, already announced its intention of ousting the Communist party from the entire community to make the nation a more peaceful place.

An occupation official said MacArthur's order does not provide for the dissolution of the Communist party.

B&PW Seeks Money for School Fund

Recently the mother of a High School boy asked the B. & P. W. Club if there would be funds available in the B. & P. W. Student Loan Fund in two years. The loan would have great need of assistance if his formal education continued beyond high school.

The B. & P. W. Club is making every effort to increase the student loan fund recently set up for the use and benefit of deserving boys and girls of Hope, Hemstead County. However, to take the combined efforts of the entire community to make the project worthwhile.

These funds will not be as gifts but loans to be repaid by the borrower so that the fund can be continued. There is a fund available at this time and there are many talented boys and girls who need it.

On Thursday of this week B. & P. W. Club is sponsoring a Benefit Bazaar at the Ballroom, beginning at 8:30 a. m. and running through the afternoon and evening. This will be an important event for you to contribute to the Student Loan Fund and to help some members of the Club for as many tables as possible. The price of a table is $10.00 or fifty cents for each person.

Allies Cool to Federal Police Proposal

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The Allies have just tossed a bomb at the federal police proposal, giving the Allies a high commission by asking for 25,000 police officers to form a federal police force.

The Germans have just tossed a bomb at the federal police proposal, giving the Allies a high commission by asking for 25,000 police officers to form a federal police force.

German officials said they are not in favor of the reaction in Britain, France and America if they give the Allies a high commission. The Allies, particularly, fear a central police force would be controlled by the new German army.

However, there has been no final decision on the request by West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

A decision probably will be made within a month by the Allied high commissioners. Officials here call the issue one of the most explosive since the Allies since the German occupation began five years ago.

Such complex questions as these cannot be answered before the Allies can give the Germans their freedom.

How will public opinion in the West react to the creation of a central police force which could form the nucleus of a new Wehrmacht?

What safeguards could be set up to prevent this force from acting as a tool for the formation of a new German army?

How could the Allies and West Germans offer the inevitable Soviet propaganda attacks on the creation of a force which the Communists would certainly call a German army?

Is there a real need for a central police force when the state police could be expanded?

California to Select Governor

San Francisco, June 6 (AP)—Two million contests for governor and U. S. senator and other nominations called Californians to the polls today.

Balloting in the direct primary election for 435 state and congressional seats culminated weeks in some cases months of intensive street corner campaigning.

Polls opened at a. m. in 18,220 precincts. The closing hour is 8 p. m. in San Francisco, 7 p. m. everywhere else in the state. Election officials estimated a 50-odd percent turnout by the 4,925,369 registered voters.

All major candidates appeared at both Democratic and Republican balloting. A Republican or Democrat who has crossed, as allowed under the direct primary law, can get himself elected today.

Chief interest in the election centered on whether Republican Governor Earl Warren would repeat his two-party primary cleanup of four years ago. The 1948 Republican vice presidential candidate is seeking a precedent-breaking third party nomination. The late President carried California in all four of his elections.

Campaign managers for James Roosevelt, Warren's Democratic opponent, counted on the top-heavy Democratic registration — 2,862,000 to 1,824,340 Republicans to give DOR's eldest son his own term. He's certain to get the Republican nomination.

The first broadcast of a presidential inauguration was of Calvin Coolidge in 1925. The first telecast of such an event was that in 1949 of Harry S. Truman's.

Experts Do About-Face on Lion Oil Ad Puzzle

There isn't no justice!

Lion Oil Company frankly admitted the error would pick up the headline "Looking for a Lion's Mane Today" as the ad which told the Lion Oil Company in the most effective way.

A number of the advertising experts did choose that ad in the Lion Oil Ad Puzzle because it was the most effective. The ad, they declared, was straight to the point, clearly revealing Lion's superiority to the present market.

However, the majority voted for the ad which is truly "Lion's Mane Today." The experts maintained that ad would get a lower ranking and, therefore, they called the Lion Oil Ad Puzzle a puzzle.

The ad which was chosen by the majority was the one which was chosen by the majority.

From the experts can be wrong, but the majority is right when they vote for the ad of the Lion Oil Ad Puzzle.

The LONESOME BRIDE

By Grace Nies Fletcher

Copyright 1950 by MHA Service, Inc.

With a heavy heart, she went to the evidence to clear her father's name. Gloria, the daughter of Colonel Perkins, the wife of Millicent Brown, hunted like a common gun moll. It was to laugh—or cry.

And Father lunched with Professor Brown at the Algonquin to see if it was safe to let me pound a typewriter in his educated office!" Gloria recalled. Murder, dope, gals! If father could see her now he'd disinherit her. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a gun moll child," she muttered.

If it hadn't been for Millicent sitting there in jail waiting for the federal authorities with whom no one could afford to fool... if he knew what she was up to, thank goodness, he can't do a darn thing about it, she thought with satisfaction.

Just the same, the sight of his discus-thrower shoulders would be nice about now.

THERE was an empty place where her stomach should be, a dryness in her throat, and a pounding in her temples. Suppose Lofy Gordon should take a notion to try now to get the necklace, as he maybe had yesterday.

What was that grabbing her ankle?

It was only a greasy paper blowing along the pavement but as she bent to push it aside, she saw a motion half a block behind her. A big man had stepped back into a dark doorway but the set of his shoulders had been familiar. He was too tall for Hansen. Anyway the police now had orders to arrest her on sight. They wouldn't be furtive any more. Then who was it?

She straightened, began to walk faster and as she did she could hear the footsteps behind her quicken, too. She gave another anxious glance over her shoulder, but her follower's hat was pulled down over his forehead so that his face was in shadow. When she looked back again, panicky, the headlights of a car illumined his face briefly.

"Reuben!" she gasped. The new doorman. Could Reuben be Lofy Gordon?

DOROTHY DIX

Spinster's Lot

Dear Miss Dix: I worked for a large firm. Most of the men in it are married and they are always pitying me because I am drifting into old maidenhood and telling me that I haven't much time left in which to get a husband. I smile and compare my lot with that of their wives. I live in a pleasant boarding house where I have delicious food that I do not have to prepare myself. A pretty room that I do not have to keep clean. My day's work begins at 9 and ends at 5 after which my time is my own. My salary provides me with good clothes, trips, amusements. I have no man to keep plectated nor tied to me.

The wives, as a rule, look ten years older than I do. Their work is never done. They have to cook and wash and sew and wrestle with children. They have to make every dollar do the work of five. They have to bear men who drink and flirt and philander and who are grouchy and hard to live with and to save my life I can't see where their lot is better than mine. Do you?

A FREE FOUL

Answer: I certainly do not, unless they have such an overwhelming passion for their husbands that it takes the sting out of every sacrifice and makes them feel that every hardship is worth while if only they can be with their adored Toms, Dicks and Harrys.

Marriage A Risk

Now I'm not saying that a girl shouldn't marry until she can take out a foolproof insurance on matrimonial bliss. If she did, she would never marry. Marriage is bound to be a dangerous venture and the old proverb "nothing ventured, nothing have" is as good in it as it is elsewhere in life.

But I do say that the girl with a good job who marries thinking that she is going to better her worldly position generally finds out that she guessed wrong. As a wife she has to work longer hours than she did in any office, and she works for board and clothes with no pay envelope, and she finds her husband lots harder to get along with and more critical than her boss was.

And the only thing that makes marriage worth while is just beginning so much in love with her husband that nothing matters.

But when a man whose wife is wrestling with pots and pans and babies and wearing hand-me-downs pities the competent business girl because she isn't married, it certainly is a joke.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I have been married almost four years. No children. No happiness because we are just two opposite types of people. He likes to sit at home and never enjoys anything when he must spend money. I like to step out occasionally. He fusses even when I spend my own money. About six months ago I became tired of such a life and so left him. We were separated only a few days and he begged me to come back after which he was an ideal husband for two or three months. I was perfectly happy and thought he was, but he says that he can never be happy with me again. He believes there is a mate for every person and he thinks we are mismatched. I love him and I break my heart to think of giving him up. I am working and am self-supporting. I am 2 years old

Bandit Slain in Battle With Police

New York, June 6 (AP)—A running gun battle between police and holdup men in the Greenwich Village night club belt early today left one bandit dead and two bandits and a bystander wounded.

Two patrons were slugged on the head with gun butts when they resisted three holdup men who invaded the little Casino cafe and fled without loot.

Dozens of persons in the crowded neighborhood ducked into doorways as a score of shots were exchanged.

Twenty-five patrons of the cafe, who witnessed the frustrated holdup, poured out into the street in fighting mood.

Two of the bandits were wounded and captured after their getaway car crashed into a construction derrick near Washington Square.

The third fugitive ran into a death trap when he sought refuge in the kitchen of an almost empty cafe nearby, the fashionable Salle Des Champs. He was shot to death there when he was trapped by two policemen and came out shooting.

A patrolman, hearing the robbers shooting in the Little Casino, engaged them in battle as they fled in their car. He wounded two of them. Two other policemen then joined the chase.

The dead man was identified tentatively by police as Harold A. Sellers, 20, of Brooklyn.

The wounded were identified as: Ralph Chiriles, 19, of Brooklyn, one of the alleged robbers, wounded in the right arm.

John Penna, 25, of Queens, another alleged robber, in serious condition from wounds in the back and right arm.

Louis La Presto, 43, of Manhattan, the bystander, was in serious condition with a bullet wound in the head. Police said he was shot by one of the gunmen to cover their escape from the Casino.

President Jefferson bought Louisiana Territory in 1803.

Lunch was served buffet style from the dining table centered with the huge white birthday cake topped with 89 multi-colored candles. The honoree received many nice gifts.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Gaines, Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ballard, and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Martin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Gaines and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Gaines and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Campbell, Mrs. Dale Tonnemaker, and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Womack of Hot Springs and Mrs. J. A. Fowler.

Miss Ramona Putman,
William K. Ruggles
Wed on "Bride & Groom"

The Little Country church of Hollywood, Cal. which is nestled among big beautiful trees in a sunken garden, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Doris Ramona Putman and William K. Ruggles at eleven o'clock Wednesday morning, May 24.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Oliver Putman, 1301 Grand, Texarkana, and Mr. Ruggles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Bryan Ruggles of this city.

The church was decorated with a background of greenery, floor baskets of white gladioli and double stock, and branched candelabra holding glowing white tapers. The Reverend Stanley Cornils of the West Hollywood Baptist church officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony before an archway of flowers.

Nuptial music included "All My Love" played in the Lido room of the Knickerbocker hotel during the Bride and Groom program, and "He Watcheth O'er My Flock" in the Little Country church. Organ music was played softly during the exchange of vows. For the nuptial blessing, the couple knelt on a white satin pillow.

The bride wore an ivory Skinner's bridal satin wedding gown, with a fitted bodice and tiny buttons down the front extended to the waist. A small collar collar turned back at the neckline. The full circular skirt flared out into a long train, and featured a small butterfly bustle in back. She wore long satin mitts pointed over the hands. For something old, the bride carried a silk handkerchief belonging to her great aunt, Mrs. Ruffie Cowling. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a band of beaded orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white brides roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Marjorie Putman was her sisters maid of honor. She wore a gown of lavender taffeta with a fitted bodice, cap sleeves, and a long full skirt. She wore matching mitts and a halo brim of lavender net. Her bouquet was yellow roses and orchid sweetpeas.

Korbel Davis of Bakersfield, Cal. cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Putman wore a navy blue gabardine suit, petal pink blouse, and navy blue accessories. She pinned an orchid at her shoulder.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Korbel Davis (former Edith Ruggles) entertained with a dinner at the Brown Derby. The bride chose a tangerine gabardine suit, white hat and gloves and her shoes and purse were navy blue. She planned the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

Mary Coster entertained with a buffet supper for fifty guests at Apple Valley Inn, honoring the couple before they left for their wedding trip to Double J. Ranch in Lucerne Valley, Cal.

The bride is a graduate of Arkansas High school, and attended Texarkana college, Henderson State Teachers college, and Four States Business college.

Mr. Ruggles was graduated from Hope High school, and the Institute of Mortuary Science in Dallas. He served 18 months in Japan with the 11th Airborne Division. He is employed by the William Funeral Home of Marianna, Ark.

The couple will be at home at 300 Mulberry St., Marianna.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Ruggles
Honored at Open House

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ruggles entertained from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Saturday June 3, with open house for the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ruggles.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hosts who introduced them to the bride couple. The bride was presented a corsage of gardenias, and a gardenia for her hair for the occasion.

In the living room, a beautiful arrangement of roses in a cut glass bowl adorned a side table. A profusion of spring flowers including sweetpeas, hydrangeas, daisies, and larkspurs were used at vantage points throughout the house.

Miss Lucille Ruggles presided at the guest book. Mrs. Jack Rogers invited guests into the dining room where the color scheme of green and white was emphasized. The dining table covered with an imported Irish linen embroidered cloth with inserts of lace, was centered with a crystal e'pergne of gardenias, and lighted white tapers. At the base of the e'pergne was an arrangement of gardenias. Adding to the decoration of the table was a miniature bride and groom.

On the side table was a crystal e'pergne of lighted tapers, gardenias, flanked by crystal epernettes holding single tapers, and gardenias.

Mrs. Truman Humphries, of Shreveport, sister of the bridegroom, poured the frosted green punch from the crystal punch bowl encircled with Queen Anne's lace. The white ice cake on an antique crystal cakestand was served by Miss Wanda Ruggles. Assisting in the dining room were granddaughters of the hosts, Misses Barbara and Dianne Humphries.

Others extending courtesies were Mrs. Manuel Hamm, Mrs. Lyle Allen, and Miss Mary Ann England. Mrs. S. L. Churchwell, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Annie E. Garand, 84 years of age, gave advice on marriage to the couple.

Approximately sixty guests called during the appointed hours. Among out of town guests were: Mrs. T. O. Putman, Miss Marjorie Putman, Robert S. Dowd, Miss Christine Young, Henry W. Phillips, Miss Mary Nipper, and Frank Addis, all of Texarkana. Mr. and Mrs. Truman Humphries, and daughters, Barbara, Dianne, Judy and Peggy of Shreveport.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Andrews and Miss Adolphine Andrews motored to Dallas Saturday morning and attended the commencement exercises at Southern Methodist University Saturday night at which time their daughter, Miss Mary Carolyn Andrews, received her Bachelor of Arts degree. They were accompanied to Hope Monday night by Miss Andrews for a week visit.

Robert Bales returned to North Texas State college, Denton to attend the summer semester.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks of Evansville, Ind. were weekend guest of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Brooks of Blevins, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ross of Hope. They attended the wedding of Mrs. Brooks brother, Delwin Ross and Miss Billy Franks of Magnolia Sunday afternoon.

Misses Judy and Carol Walker of Pine Bluff will return home Thursday after a two weeks visit with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jones.

Misses Lucille and Jack Porter returned Monday night from Norman, Okla. where they attended

ACP Assists Conservation Practices

Farmers of Hemstead County making adjustments in crops to comply with acreage allotments are finding the assistance for carrying out conservation practices provided under the Agricultural Conservation Program a real boon. According to Earl N. Martindale, chairman of the county PMA committee, the ACP provides assistance for a number of conservation practices which fit into the adjustment program. Since most if not all the other cash crops to which farmers can turn are not in abundant supply, Mr. Martindale thinks it only "good sense" for a farmer to put some of this land into grass and legumes or a cover and green manure crop. In the chairman's words, "Farmers and the nation cannot afford either to waste this land in the production of crops for which there is no market or allow it to go to waste in weeds and erosion." The cost of changing over from a cash crop to pasture or meadow is high and the returns are often slow in coming in. It is here that the Agricultural Conservation Program can be of real help, he points out. Seeding the adjusted acres to pasture or carrying out other conservation practices not only helps in adjusting commencement exercises at the University of Oklahoma at which time, their brother, Russell Porter received his AB degree in Journalism.

Mrs. E. A. Morsani accompanied her mother, Mrs. August Solter of Seared Heart, Okla., and sister, Mrs. Anita Ejscheld, and her daughter, Joann, and cousin, Clarence Nicklas, of Oklahoma City to Oklahoma City where they attended the ordination of a cousin, Kenneth Fulton, in a colorful and sublime service by Bishop McGinnis of Oklahoma City. Reverend Fulton held his first mass Sunday at Seared Heart Oklahoma birthplace of his mother.

ling production for the present, soil fertility for the future. Among the leading conservation practices, farmers on land taken out of grain and other crops are the following: plantations of leguminous crops, such as soybeans to pasture and other legume crops; mowing permanent pastures for weed control; growing Bermuda grass, establishing or improving permanent pasture by seeding adapted pastures grass or legumes; growing a cover of summer legumes, and conservation of stock ponds, terraces, and drainage ditches.

For the most effective use of the conservation assistance provided under the Agricultural Conservation Program, the practices used should be the ones which fit the most urgent needs of the farm, advises Mr. Martindale. He points out that farmers cooperating in the program have a responsibility to make the most effective use of program assistance. As he explains, "The farmer is cooperating with the rest of the people in the country and the conservation practices he carries out are expected to be the ones which will do most to protect his land against erosion and depletion and keep it productive."

Mr. Martindale urges farmers of the county to become familiar with conservation practices available and then to select the practices to correct the most serious conservation problem on the farm. Often, he points out, it will require a combination of practices. This year one of the big problems is what to do with land taken out of allotment crops, and the chairman urges the farmers to use this land to build up soil fertility reserve. The ACP, he explains, provides assistance for a number of seeding practices and for lime and phosphate to help produce vigorous growth of soil protecting and soil building grasses and legumes. The chairman suggests that each farmer study the needs of his farm and then select the practices to meet these needs.

Heads Hospital

Hot Springs, June 4 (AP) — Col. Horace S. Villars has assumed command of Army and Navy General hospital here.

Col. Roary A. Murchison, who since Feb. 15, when Col. A. S. Lehman was transferred, will remain as deputy commanding officer.

Colonel Villars came here from Oliver, General hospital, Augusta, Ga.

Alternating current, the kind available in most households, gets its name from the fact it is alternately positive and negative.

"I Do"

It MAY HAVE BEEN but a decade ago, or it may have been far back in the "Twenties" . . . but sometime, somewhere, a young man stood in the soft light of a Junetime morning and repeated the words—"I do."

Since that time, he has fought—without interruption—for the place in the world he wants his family to occupy.

And it well may be that, out of the struggle, he has lost just a bit of the sentiment that used to abide in his heart—for success is a jealous master and exacts great servitude.

But not when the Junetime comes—and, with it, that anniversary of another June!

Then the work-a-day world, with its many tasks, is cast abruptly aside; and sentiment—pure and simple—rules in his heart once more.

And, because there are so many thousands of him, doorbells are ringing this June throughout America . . . and smiling boys in uniform stand, hats in hand, to deliver the proofs of remembrance. And along with the beautiful flowers, and the boxes of candy, and the countless other gifts, some of those brides of other Junes will receive new titles to new Cadillacs.

And, for them, there will be no other June like this—save one alone.

As your Cadillac dealer in this community—we've had long practice in the art of keeping secrets. Why not let us see us today? You can trust us not to tell!

Travelers Finally Get a Shutout

By The Associated Press

After 47 tries the tormented Little Rock Travelers have won ten ball games, and you can't help admiring the way they did it.

For the first time this season Little Rock got the other side from scoring, in this case third ranking Birmingham by a convincing 6-0. And for the first time since April 19 the Travs have their persecuted percentage up to a still far from respectful 220.

As Verne Williamson pitched a fine four-hitter, Little Rock got a workmanlike 12. For one of the few times this season the Travelers got so terrific they scared away an opposing pitcher. Birmingham starter Ralph Holmes got a second inning shower.

The Travs are winning a series, something else folks didn't think they would manage in all of 1950. Although Little can be said for Birmingham's job Monday night the Barons did manage to keep Pat Haggerty the Southern's leading batter, from increasing his average. Haggerty didn't have an official time at bat. He sacrificed once, was bit by a pitcher and got two walks.

An 18-year-old kid who didn't get a bonus for signing with the Boston Braves' farm system wrecked $102,000 worth of Chicago White Sox bonus property.

Michigan was separated from Indiana Territory in 1805.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, June 6 - The national collegiate A. A. compliance committee is meeting to consider 22 more cases of possible violation of the "sanity code" and some of the original "sinful seven" are wondering what the heck. A lot of delegates left the NCAA meeting last winter with the idea that no further action would be taken against violators, pending a survey by a special committee. Then they found the original seven had been ruled ineligible for NCAA tournaments and further indictments might be handed down.

"They said Curly Byrd had amended his resolution, but it wasn't changed on the copy I had," one of the sinners growled recently. "Then they said they had to save face. They were supposed to consider some changes in the sanity code at a meeting in Chicago the other day and I understood the Eastern College Athletic conference did modify its rules. Now I don't know what's up." That makes it unanimous; neither do we.

What's the Score?

A sporting goods house, which awards hole-in-one certificates to deserving golfers, recently received an attested scorecard from John Grove of Lenox, Mass., who sank his tee shot on the 100-yard fifth hole at the Stockbridge, Mass., golf club. The card showed the ace, all right, but it also showed a couple of tens and, on a 525-yard hole, a gaudy 16. Grove's total for the par 71 course was 70-64-134. It only shows you don't have to be an expert golfer to score an ace.

St. John's U. has signed up Frank McGuire for five more years as basketball and baseball coach. Off his record, he should have received a nice raise, too.

Frank Lane, who learned to "take it" as a baseball executive by refereeing basketball games in the early days of his career, is now working Kentucky vs. Notre Dame with Adolph Rupp and the late George Keegan on the benches.

"But I'd still like to have Rupp as a baseball scout," he adds.

McClendon Resigns as Team Manager

Requesting that he be replaced two weeks ago the resignation of Legionnaire baseball team manager, Bill McClendon, was finally accepted today and Buddy White team catcher, was named his successor.

McClendon made the following statement:

"I am resigning as manager of the baseball team because of conflicting business relations and the illness of my father. I want to thank my many friends for their cooperation and support during the time I have been connected with the Hope team."

The Legion athletics committee accepted the resignation "with regret" and were unanimous in naming Buddy White to fill the job.

Legion Tied With Camden in 3rd Place

The Hope Legionnaires journey to Camden tonight for a regular league game with the much-improved Clark County nine. Hope returns here Wednesday night for a game with Plain Dealing, La.

The Friday night schedule of three games in the Southwest Arkansas semi-pro league was a complete wash-out but seven other contests were played during the week. The El Dorado Lion Oilers still lead the loop but the Waldo Gians won games, two make-up to move into the number two spot just one game behind the Oilers.

The Camden Kraftsmen and Hope Legionnaires are tied for third, with the Springfield Sports moving from sixth to fourth. Murrefreesboro, Gordon, and Mineral Springs complete the standings.

The Mineral Springs Flyers still have failed to register a win in loop play, having lost 12 straight contests. Surely they are not going to try to break the Little Rock Travelers record.

Games this week included El Dorado vs. Mineral Springs at El Dorado this past Sunday; Camden vs. El Dorado at Camden on Tuesday; Hope at Gordon on Tuesday; and Murrefreesboro at Mineral Springs also on Tuesday.

The clubs will reverse their playing sites on Friday, with the exception of Camden and El Dorado and they will play again at Camden on Thursday.

The standings for all games played through Friday June 2:

Team	W	L	Pct
El Dorado Lion	10	3	.769
Waldo Gians	9	4	.692
Camden Kraftsmen	8	5	.615
Hope Legionnaires	8	5	.615

Lucas Gives Up FEPC Measure

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) gave up temporary efforts to get a fair employment practices commission bill before the senate.

The senate Democratic leader, Mr. Wherry, however, that the present session of congress ends he will move again to action on the measure.

Southern Democrats have opposed the bill with a filibuster and Senator Russell (D-Ga.) said talk will start again as soon as Lucas reveals his motion.

The argument over FEPC broke out when Lucas formally withdrew his motion, which has been pending several weeks, to take up the bill.

He then moved to bring before the senate a house-approved measure blocking the borrowing power of commodity credit corp (CCC) by $2,000,000,000.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican leader, said he regretted Lucas' decision to give up now on FEPC. He said the senate ought to agree unanimously to let the motion stand while it goes ahead with other business.

Russell jumped up to say there couldn't be any business transaction by unanimous consent so long as the FEPC motion was pending.

Explosion Again Hits Snuff Plant

Memphis, Tenn., June 5.—(AP)—The second explosion within 10 days jarred the strike-bound snuff company plant here late last night.

Steve Condon, general manager, said someone walking along railroad tracks which edge one side of the plant threw a small bomb against the wall of the four-story structure.

The bomb bounced off the brick wall and exploded on the ground. It scooped a small crater and smashed about one third of the windows on that side.

No one was injured. A night watchman, D. G. Smith, was the only person in the plant, which was closed for the weekend.

The blast was the second since the company locked in a bitter struggle with the bargaining union of the plant, the CIO United Steelworkers of America.

A black, gunpowder bomb exploded in a storeroom May 26. Damage was estimated at only $100, but company officials offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible.

Strikers on the scene last night said their union had nothing to do with either blast. Earl Crowder, district representative, was reported out of town.

The plant's approximately 35 production workers walked out on 13 to back contract demands. The company said full production was maintained with non-union workers.

Louisiana Territory was given to the government in 1805.

James William Martin

James William Martin, of route 1, Lewisburg, Tenn., has been a smaller and popular figure at thousands of old-fashioned entertainments throughout Tennessee since he was just a boy. The old-timers claim that young Bill can make a bull fiddle talk "sweet music."

These fans really missed Martin's music when he did not appear in his regular program on the great 50,000 watt WLAC radio station in Nashville, Tenn., recently. In fact, they missed him for the two weeks that he suffered the horrors of nervous indigestion and danderitis.

They will be happy to know now that Bill is back with the bull fiddle. He just a little sweeter because Bill feels better now than he ever did before, because he has earned the blessings of HADACOL, the deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, B6 and Iron are now being overcome by taking HADACOL.

Here is Martin's own statement about the blessings that HADACOL brought to him:

"I am only 24 years old but have suffered with the horrors of nervous indigestion. No food I ate digested well. I suffered severe headaches. I had difficulty sleeping. I have played with radio and nervous indigestion and danderitis. I was run down and nervous and for a time thought I would never give up my work."

"The second bottle of HADACOL I felt better and now after the fourth of HADACOL I feel like a new man. I am going to continue to take HADACOL to help me stay healthy."

JUST saying Lofly Gordon's name under her breath made the sweat break out all over Gloria. Her legs felt like water, no longer able to hold her up. Reuben was tall enough to be called "Lofly" and he seemed to know plenty about the Benonis. Lofly once had been a member of the gang.

There was safety now only in lights and people. Her teeth chattered as she looked about desperately, saw above her a great lighted window with a red neon sign, Ella Mae's Beauty Shoppe. Gloria whirled, ran up the shallow brownstone steps, her breath coming in great gasps. Would Lofly follow?

"It's 9 o'clock, Miss," the girl in the soiled white uniform standing behind the desk said as Gloria shot inside like something hurled out of a gun. "We close in 20 minutes. We can't do nothing for you tonight, dearie."

She yawned, revealing two gold teeth and the fact she was chewing gum. Gloria's eyes were frantically ransacking the place for the back door. She slid her shaking hand into her bag, extricated a $5 bill and dropped it onto the scratched wooden counter.

"Not even a quick shampoo?" Gloria murmured. "Of course, I expect to pay extra this time of night." No more was necessary; Ella Mae's hand swept out and the bill was no longer there.

"Last booth," she said, resignedly. How long did she have? Maybe she could slip out the back door while Ella Mae was getting the shampoo, Gloria planned. Her hands were jerking and she perched on the extreme edge of the big leather chair with the stuffing leaking out the bottom, longing to make a dash for the door behind the curtain but not daring because Ella Mae was standing nearby, filling a bottle with nauseous-looking gray liquid. As she came back, Gloria could only settle back into the big chair, with her precious pie box and the handbag containing the gun piled in her lap.

"Relax, dearie," Ella Mae urged, puzzled. "Don't you want to put your bundles down? What you got in them anyway, the Crown Jewels?"

"Sure. An emerald necklace," Gloria told her, grinning sickly.

"KILLER-DILLER, ain't you?" Ella Mae smeared gray goo all over Gloria's rigid head and the water ran down into the shampoo basin like something choking to death. The things women suffer to be beautiful! Was that the outside door opening?

"Relax," Ella Mae urged again. "How'm I gonna—"

"There's someone outside!" Gloria gasped. She froze to the chair, her head still dripping water and goo as Ella Mae went out to see who it was, drawing the curtain decorously.

"Good evening," it was Lofly, all right. Gloria grabbed a towel, mopped madly at her hair, and gripping her precious bundles, tipped with agonizing slowness behind her own curtain toward the back door, as she asked Ella Mae, "A girl in a dark-blue slacks suit come in here, Sister?"

"What's it to you?" Ella Mae asked sullenly. Thank goodness for the $5 bill! If Ella Mae could just hold him a few seconds more. Gloria had her hand on the door-knob when she heard Ella Mae gasp.

"He pulled a knife on her!" Gloria knew widely. "Like Sal!" She ought to stay, help the poor kid, but—

How Gloria actually got through the door, out into the alley, she never could remember later, but all at once she was running crazily down the dark alley, crying, bumping into things, mingled tears and goo running into her panting mouth. This alley too was full of overflowing garbage pails. She slid thankfully into a dark recess. This must be the doorway—a new way she had to chance it. When she tried the knob it moved inward under her shaking fingers, and she slid inside just as Ella Mae's scream echoed down the dark alley and there was the sound of footsteps running.

"Help her get away," Gloria prayed and leaned weakly back against the closed door, shaking there in the darkness, letting the awful pounding of her heart die down, wishing she could have helped Ella Mae and knowing she couldn't. Lofly would just have killed both women before Gloria could get the gun out of her bag.

Gloria's eyes were stinging as if someone had poured salt into them—that awful shampoo. She yanked off her scarf from around her neck where Ella Mae had put it, and rubbed vigorously till her hair stopped dripping and by this time she could see a little in the room where she was.

It was a store room, filled with fruit crates, and that rim of light along the floor must be a door. She was about to move toward it when she heard voices.

"She ain't coming," a man's voice grumbled. "It's 9:30 and no signs of her, Sadie."

"Sure, she's coming," Mrs. Benoni's voice said and Gloria drew a breath of relief. This was the right place, after all. But the relief didn't last long because Mrs. Benoni said, "I wish you didn't have to knock her, Benny. I don't like the idea of tying her up and leaving her. Suppose she chokes?"

She hasn't done us any harm. If I'd been alone that morning, Gordon would probably have come right into the apartment, and then it'd been me, instead of Jack the Cork!

"Aw, I won't hurt her—much," Mr. Benoni growled. "We'll get the necklace and then hike—what's that noise?"

Gloria, trying panicky to get back to the outside door, had bumped into an orange crate which came tumbling down.

Super Panel to Review Loyalty Cases

Washington, June 5.—(AP) A White House source said today "there is a strong possibility" that President Truman will appoint a "super panel" to review the cases of 81 state department employees whose loyalty has been questioned by Senator McCarthy.

This source, unquotable by name, said no final decision has been made but that Mr. Truman is considering the idea.

He said the "super panel," if created, would not supersede the present loyalty review system, but would assist it.

The President may discuss the proposal at a conference he has scheduled late today with Senator Tydings (D-Md.), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee investigating McCarthy's charges.

Tydings' committee now is concentrating on the 1945 Amerasia case which involved illegal removal of secret government documents from the state department.

It called Immanuel S. Larsen, former state department employee who was one of the six arrested in the case, for secret hearing this afternoon.

The group held to plans for questioning of Larsen behind closed doors despite a demand from Senator Knowland (R-Calif) for a public airing of the "unexplained circumstances" of the hotly disputed case.

Knowland suggested that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover go before an informal session of the senate to answer questions about those aspects. Such a public meeting would clear the atmosphere, Knowland said.

The case involved hundreds of secret government documents seized five years ago by the FBI and the wartime office of strategic services in the New York headquarters of the now defunct Amerasia magazine. Some papers also were recovered from Larsen's apartment.

'Power Grab' Still Goes Says McClellan

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—Senator McClellan (D-Ark) isn't backing down from his description of some of President Truman's reorganization plans as a "power grab."

McClellan told the senate yesterday an "absolutely false quotation" was credited to him in an article in a current issue of a national news magazine (newweek).

McClellan said the article implied that in a conversation with President Truman he had retreated from that stand. This is not true, and the remark still goes, McClellan said.

The Arkansas senator is chairman of the senate expenditures committee, which has jurisdiction over the reorganization plans. He made the "power grab" remark May 17.

He said FDJ recruiting would also be stepped up in Eastern Germany, where there are now 1,200,000 blue-shirts and more than 1,000,000 pre-adolescents in the auxiliary, young pioneers.

"Our next aim is to bring at least 70 per cent of the youth in the (east) republic into the FDJ," he asserted.

William Henry Harrison was the first governor of Indiana Territory.

Heads District

Magnolia, June 5.—(AP) Jim m. v. Nunn, Camden, was elected commander of American Legion district 11 at a conference here yesterday.

Nunn succeeds Jimmy Stein, El Dorado. Bruce Bennett, El Dorado, was elected vice-commander.

Foreign Aid Bill Signed Into a Law

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—President Truman signed the 63,121, 450,000 foreign aid authorization bill today, calling it a "major contribution to peace and freedom in the world."

The measure was signed at a White House ceremony. It authorizes five programs of world-wide aid, including funds for the third-year operation of the European recovery plan, and a start on the "point four" proposal to develop backward areas.

"Taken together," Mr. Truman said of the five programs, "they add up to a broad, enlightened and typically American enterprise in the building of a safe and prosperous world."

In his statement, the President expressed special pleasure over the $350,000,000 fund approved for technical aid under the point four program.

He said it is an important step toward strengthening freedom and defeating "communist imperialism," and expressed hope that congress will soon pass a companion measure authorizing the government to encourage and support private investment in needy nations.

"The present act," he said, "is a memorable step forward in our program for peace. I am confident that the congress will follow through promptly by appropriating the full measure of funds necessary to carry out the programs authorized in this act."

Mr. Truman said the act is a tribute to the "wisdom and vigor of the forward-looking members of the congress of both political parties, of both houses, and particularly to the hard work of the responsible congressional committees."

Arkansas 'Hams' Hold Meeting at Danville

Danville, June 5.—(AP)—Arkansas amateur radio operators held a "hamfest" at Spring lake near here yesterday.

Some 200 "hams" and members of their families attended the session. Included were some enthusiasts from other states.

Proposal that the Arkansas legislature be asked to allow amateur operators to have license tags bearing their station call letters was discussed. Some states have such a provision.

Looking into Tomorrow... Today!

LIKE MANY TOURISTS in the South, this family has paused to take a good look at Lion Oil Company's giant chemical plant at El Dorado, Arkansas. And what they see is not simply steel and mortar and pipes... but a glimpse of Tomorrow. For, this one great plant sums up what is happening in the South today—the Industrial Revolution—and foresees the added prosperity coming to the South in the future.

Lion Oil Company—itsself as much a part of the South as cornbread—is proud it is helping shape that future. Through its production of fuels and lubricants to power and smooth the way for Southern Industry... and of chemical fertilizers to step up the yield of Southern agriculture... Lion is contributing to the South's well-being today... and helping to build for a more prosperous Tomorrow.

We at Lion are Home Folks here in the South... always striving to do our part to make our homeland the finest in the nation. You can count on Lion as your Good Neighbor... always.

"Stop at the Sign of the Lion!"

Which is Truly Southern?

That's SPANISH MOSS pictured in "A" above, and it is generally known to thrive in the South. Of course, it also grows in most tropical and subtropical climates.

"B" above is a Mocking Bird—usually thought of as making the South his habitat. But we find the mocking bird winging his way out of the South in summer, getting as far away as New England.

What about "C" above—the lion? Well, maybe most lions make Africa their home... but this lion is truly Southern. You see, this is the emblem of the Lion Oil Company... your Good Neighbor... "Home Folks."

We at Lion take pride in the important part we are able to play in making our South more prosperous. We turn out fuel that powers Southern Industry... lubricants that keep the South's industrial wheels spinning. And we provide chemical fertilizers which are stepping up the yield on farmlands throughout the South.

Yes, you can look to Lion for the kind of Progress that benefits the South... your homeland... and Lions.
